Foster Families Needed

Can you provide a temporary loving home for a dog or puppy in need? Wilson's Dog Rescue believes that there are many great dogs in the shelter system that are in need of a second chance. All they need is love and a temporary home until they are adopted.

Please visit our web site for more information on becoming a foster family and other ways you can help dogs in need.

10 Reasons to Foster a Dog

1. Companionship without the lifetime commitment
2. Dogs that have endured a hard life can be given a second chance from living in a loving home.
3. Fostering a dog is a great lesson in compassion for your entire family and it's a wonderful, life-affirming experience.
4. If you already have one or more dogs in your home, one more won't make that large of a difference to you, but it would make a world of difference to the dog that otherwise might not get a second chance.
5. Fostering increases the likelihood of a successful adoption. Dogs living in foster homes are more likely to be accepted and understood by their forever home.
6. Human interaction greatly helps a foster dog overcome their neglectful or abusive situations. Also a dog can do wonders for your health and happiness.
7. You will undoubtedly become attached to your foster dog but the life you will see it lead in their forever home will give you happiness for years to come – you also get to start all over again with a new foster.
8. More foster homes means less dogs living in shelters – this helps reduce the euthanasia rate of dogs.
9. You can watch a foster dog grow out of their shell and embrace the love you and your family give to it. There is nothing better than seeing a shy/scared dog come to life and start playing like dogs should - simply because they feel the love and care you are giving them
10. It's FUN! And it's FREE—Truly a life changing experience. WDR pays for all food and vet expenses for the foster dog.
